

Reviewer Praises Acting In Guignol Play

By BOBBIE MASON

Kernel Assistant Managing Editor

Guignol Theatre's play, "Look Homeward, Angel," which plays again this weekend, is performed by brilliant actors but the book surpasses the dramatic interpretation.

"Look Homeward, Angel," was adapted from Thomas Wolfe's lengthy novel by playwright Ketti Frings in 1957.

In this reviewer's opinion any adaptation of Wolfe's works could at best be only a half-job because of Wolfe's tremendous, expansive prose which cannot be reconciled into three hours of dialogue.

Miss Frings selects the major factors and events that make Eugene Gant what he has become in 500 pages of novel, juggles them around, and then stuffs them into a three-act play covering three weeks' time.

In this time Eugene Gant has to break away from his home roots and the audience has to see what caused him to be the way he is. The play is loaded, perhaps not overloaded for a play, but is an awkward representation of the book.

The book is about lonely, frustrated Thomas Wolfe, in the disguise of Eugene Gant, who is hungry for experience and who feels misunderstood at home. He is the embryonic writer struggling in an alien environment.

The play blows up to gigantic proportion the influence of Eugene's mother. In the book she was only one influence.

The play projects Eliza Gant so far out in front that there is a question of whether the star is Linda Brown Rue, as Eliza, or Don Galloway, as Eugene. Clearly the hero is Eugene—"Look Homeward, Angel" is 500 pages of Wolfe's egocentrism. But the play seems to star Eliza Gant.

Miss Rue is unquestionably great in her role. She moves like a 50-year-old woman. She talks like a 50-year-old woman. She interprets the miserly, overbearing character of Eliza so well that in the end everyone hates her for what she is doing to her family. She is that real.

Galloway perhaps is less the star because, as the misunderstood youth who has little communication with his family, his role is subdued. His real nature emerges in the scene with Laura (Penny Mason), when he has a chance to talk about his own interests, and he tells her his poetic feeling for trains.

Galloway is a natural, perfect for the part. He is much like Wolfe himself, who had a huge six-and-a-half-foot frame, in moving. When Galloway sits, he doesn't sit. He flops.

Revision Defeat Adds To Med School Woes

Dr. William R. Willard, vice president for the Medical Center, said yesterday he did not know what effect the defeat of the constitutional revision referendum would have on the Center's total operation.

Dr. Willard said both he and his staff were disappointed by the referendum's outcome, but added that the problem was not "insoluble."

He said the defeat just added to other problems he was encountering.

One of the immediate problems the Medical Center faces is selecting a dean for the new Dental College. Dr. Willard heads the group which is conducting a search for a dean.

Since the defeat of the constitutional revision referendum a crisis has arisen among all state employees who will be affected by the present Constitution's salary limitation.

The Court of Appeals has said it would issue a mandate January 1 reducing public salaries to $12,000 a year for state wide officials and $7,200 for less than state wide duties.

The new dean of the Dental College would be affected by the $12,000 salary limitation as well as Dr. Willard and several other University officials.

Dr. Willard said a possible delay in the opening of the Dental College would depend on when a dean was selected and the resourcefulness of the man chosen.

Much will depend, Dr. Willard said, on how the new dean would be able to recruit a staff and the availability of students.

The Dental College is scheduled to be open next fall.

Robert L. Johnson, director of Community Services for the Medical Center, said the qualification for a new dean must be high.

"He must be highly interested in dentistry and must have attained stature in dental research and dentistry itself," Johnson explained.

Construction of the $2,299,080 Dental Wing is moving on schedule, according to Johnson. The target date for completion is set for fall of 1961.

In addition to equipment costs set at $1,235,190, other costs included in the total price of the wing are charges for services rendered the entire Medical Center.

Among these costs are the architect fees, set at $1,600,000, and the collection of library materials and excavation charges amounting to $1,335,643.

The Dental Wing is to contain classrooms, operating units to be used by students, and research space for all departments of the Medical Center.

Political Writer To Give Blazer Lecture Monday

Jack Bell, head of the senate staff and chief political writer for the Associated Press in Washington, D. C., will deliver the third Blazer Lecture of the season at 8 p.m. Monday in the Taylor Education Building auditorium.

Bell, who has covered every major political convention and campaign since 1940, will discuss the next president and what the election results mean.

The Washington newsman has been one of the nation's leading political writers since first joining the Associated Press in 1937. He has authored one book on the presidency, "The Splendid Misery."

The book has been acclaimed nationally by critics as one of the most timely, informative and readable in the political field. A frequent panelist on NBC's "Meet the Press," he has won wide recognition for his penetrating and unbiased questioning of the nation's leading officials on television and radio.

Since 1940, he has traveled with presidents and would-be-presidents, reported on presidential news conferences, and dissected the actions of 22 sessions of congress.

A native of Oklahoma, Bell was city editor and Washington correspondent for the "Daily Oklahoman" and the "Oklahoma City Times." He was graduated from the University of Oklahoma in 1925.

Parking Violators Appear Unaware Of New Rules

Students receiving parking tickets this fall are apparently unfamiliar with the new rules concerning fines for offenses, according to Bill Sprague, chairman of the Student Congress Judicial Board.

A $5 fine is the penalty for the first offense, $10 for the second, $25 for the third, and a fourth offense results in suspension from the University.

Because 8,000 tickets were given for parking violations on the campus last year, the judicial board made new rulings this year to eliminate parking problems and not as a money-making project, Sprague said.

Students who receive parking tickets should report to Dr. L. L. Martin, dean of men, immediately, because license numbers will be traced to car owners. A second failure to report parking tickets will result in suspension from school.

If a student lends his car to someone and the borrower receives a ticket for parking, the owner of the car is responsible.

Students are allowed to park on the campus after 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and after 12:30 p.m. on Saturday. However, they must observe the regular rules of not parking on yellow lines or in loading zones.

Constitution Referendum Is Defeated

The Constitutional revision referendum was defeated by the voters of Kentucky Tuesday by approximately 19 thousand votes.

With 95 percent of the precincts counted the referendum was behind by 18,894 votes.

The road and parks bond issue, however, received a favorable vote in the commonwealth. The 100-million dollar proposal was leading by a majority of 95,147 with 95 percent of the precincts counted.

With defeat of the constitutional convention question, about 350 state employees, including several at UK, stand to receive salary reductions.

The present constitution prevents all state employees but the governor and mayor of Louisville from receiving more than $12,000 a year.

Pershing Rifles Ball Set Tomorrow Night In SUB

The Pershing Rifles coronation ball will be held tomorrow from 8-12 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom.

Frank Watkins, commanding officer of Pershing Rifles, said the active members voted last night for an honorary captain, first lieutenant, and a second lieutenant from the sponsor candidates.

The sponsor will be a social hostess for the Pershing Rifles. She will also accompany them to regimental drill meets and a trip

ODK Will Pledge 8 Today In SUB

Omicron Delta Kappa, national senior men's honorary, will pledge eight members at 5 p.m. today in the Student Union Building.

To be eligible for membership, a student must accumulate eight points in the organization's point system for scholarship, forensics, athletics, publications, or social services. He must have a 2.8 cumulative standing.

Initiation of the pledges will be at 4:30 p.m. Monday, Nov. 21, at the First Presbyterian Church. A banquet will follow at 8 p.m. in the SUB to honor the new members.

Men to be pledged are: David V. Stewart, graduate student in the College of Commerce, from Louisville. His activities include being president of Tau Kappa Epsilon, managing editor of the Kernel in 1957, and a regional vice president of the Association of College Unions.

Pete Perlman, law student from Covington. Perlman has served as president and vice president of Student Congress and as president of the YMCA.

Robert L. Berry, senior in electrical engineering from Paris. He has been president of Tau Beta Pi, engineering honorary, a four-year member of the band, and a member of the Institute of Radio Engineers.

George A. Duncan, senior in agricultural engineering from Auburn. He is a member of Tau Beta Pi, past president of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers, and the UK Engineering Council.

TV Production Features Kernel

The process and publication of the Kernel will be featured this week on the "University of Kentucky Television Workshop."

The student produced program which originates at 5:30 p.m. Saturday from WKYT-TV will show the staff of the Kernel and reporters in action. Editor Bob Anderson, and Managing Editor Mike Weninger will be interviewed on the show.

Another part of the production will be devoted to the Blue Marlins swimming group. Virginia Kemp, president, and Ethel Davidson, vice president, will be interviewed and a film of the Blue Marlins will be shown.

Brrrr!

Arva Maynard, this week's Kernel Sweetheart, doesn't let the cold weather stop her from wearing the latest style in short skirts. Miss Maynard, Kappa Delta pledge from Ashland, is a medical technology freshman in Arts and Sciences.

Two Debating Teams In Weekend Tourneys

University debating teams will participate in tournaments at Columbia, S.C., and Columbus, Ohio, this weekend.

Both groups will debate the proposition, Resolved: "That the United States should adopt a program of compulsory health insurance for all citizens."

Members of the squad who will debate in the Carolina Forensics at the University of South Carolina are James Smith, Bowling Green; Sharon Chenault, Fern Creek; Kathleen Cannon, Hopkinsville; and Deno Curris, Lexington.

The other squad, including varsity and novice debaters, will attend the annual Tau Kappa Alpha Regional Forensics Conference at Capital University in Columbus.

Varsity members are Ben Wright, Cadiz; Michael Snedeker, Bowling

Green; Earl Oremus, Lexington; and Jay Roberts, Richmond. The novice debaters are Robert Greene, Hindman; Max Jerrell, LaCenter; Nancy Loughridge, Lexington; and Paul Chellgren, Ashland.

Bettye Choate, Hopkinsville, will enter the discussion at Columbus on the question, "What should be the role of the Federal Government in the regulation of mass media of communication?"

Pittsburgh Graduate School Dean Talks On Good Government Here Next Week

The dean of the Graduate School of Public and International Affairs at the University of Pittsburgh will be here Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday to lecture on good government.

One of the lectures by Dean Donald C. Stone at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Music Room of the Student Union Building will be open to the public. He will speak on "Problems in Metropolitan Areas."

Dean Stone will deliver lectures and hold conferences with students and faculty during the three-day tour sponsored by the Murray Seasongood Good Government Fund in Cincinnati.

Among the subjects he will discuss are graduate study opportunities for a career in public service, role of leadership in public and international affairs, an international political year, and the Bureau of the Budget.

Dean Stone has served at every level of government—city and county, state, national, and international.

His first assignment was as staff aid to the city manager of Cincinnati. He has served as director of research for the International City Managers' Association, head of the Public Administration Service.

He has also served as consultant for the Tennessee Valley Authority, and for nine years as assistant director of the Bureau of the Budget. He has been on several United Nations committees and before going to the University of Pittsburgh, was president of Springfield College.

Guignol Acting Termed 'Brilliant'

Most of the time Galloway is a completely believable 17-year-old boy who is eaten away by his mother's strong hold on him.

Both he and Miss Rue are tremendous in the powerful scene near the end when he turns against her for every thing she has made him, in which he gives "thanks for nothing."

Charles Drew played the part of the drunken father true to form, and his wild, uncontrolled actions were apparently well under control. Some of his lines which were meant to be serious were amusing. For instance, his reference to his marriage as "30 long miserable years" was truth, but it drew laughs.

The prostitute, Madame Elizabeth, was an attention-getting device which would have been effective in spite of Mary Warner Ford's excellent acting. Her voice and actions were greatly modified to fit the part.

The almost realistic, somewhat impressionistic set was slightly confusing, but not nearly so confusing as the original Broadway set with a revolving stage might have been.

Three bedrooms and a front porch are seen together, so that scenes can be easily switched and the audience can see what is happening in different places. This device is probably less detracting from a drama than a revolving stage would be.

A Free Press

University of California students were recently given a first-hand lesson in the value of a free press, a lesson we hope will benefit other schools as well.

When the editor of the Daily Californian, student publication of the Berkeley campus, endorsed a candidate for the UC student governing body, the student government executive committee voted to extend its control over the paper by assuming the duties of selecting its editors.

In the ensuing ruckus, the Daily Californian editorial staff resigned and formed a new paper, the Independent Californian, using the facilities of the University of San Francisco Foghorn. The Daily Californian continued publication under a board named by the student government body.

The Californian, although still publishing a periodical printed on newsprint, is no longer a real newspaper. It has no policy, save that of the student government.

There have been instances in the past when UK student government, noting that some student governing bodies on other campuses dabble in campus journalism, has felt it should take over the Kernel or at least assume the task of naming Kernel editors.

Selection of the Kernel editorial staff is done by the Board of Student Publications, the chairman of which is the director of the School of Journalism. This board is responsible to the president of the University who, in turn, is responsible to the University Board of Trustees.

The Kernel editorial staff is responsible to the Publications Board for the editorial and news content of the paper. Through years of accurate and mature editorial and news judgment the board has granted the Kernel a degree of independence that is rare among college newspapers and would be impossible if we were responsible to student government.

It is unfortunate that all college newspapers do not enjoy the freedom from control enjoyed by the Kernel. For if the rights of freedom of the press and speech are not observed in the institutions where American youth is educated, these and the other rights granted by the Bills of Rights may be taken from us.

Love In The Jury Room

The practice of satire is in disuse, though the occasions crying out for it have never been more numerous.

In London late last month "Lady Chatterley's Lover," that most subpoenaed of novels, went before a jury of nine men and three women who would try once again to decide whether or not Lawrence's earnest classic was obscene. The prosecutor declared, predictably, that the book did indeed "tend to induce lustful thoughts," that "it sets upon a pedestal promiscuous, adulterous intercourse." Attorney for the defense (Penguin Books, Ltd. was before the bar) urged, with similar lack of originality, that Lawrence was a great believer in marriage and "wholesome" union. He asked the jury to "read the whole book as you would read an ordinary book from beginning to end."

Mr. Justice Byrne agreed that such a reading was necessary and adjourned the case for a week to give the jurors time to get on with the job. Also, because "at home you might have distractions," he ordered the jury to assemble each morning in the jury room for this literary exercise. The spectacle of nine men and three women officially convened to read "Lady Chatterley" and peering over the tops of their tidy Penguin editions to note which members of the group were showing the perspiration of lust or indicating a willingness to mount the promiscuous pedestal, is as wryly humorous a symbol of our time as a satirist could reasonably desire.

Dunderheads

To The Editor:

The majority of the voting citizens of the Commonwealth of Kentucky have once again proved that they will do anything to maintain their leadership of the masses of dunderheads south of the Mason-Dixon line. For the third time in this century they have failed to approve the calling of a convention to revise the antiquated Constitution by which they are governed.

Yes sir, Kentuckians will have "ABC in '63" and be Godforsaken by '67."

"What new leader?"

What Does He Want?

Nikita's Congratulations

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev is already maneuvering for a summit conference with President-elect John F. Kennedy. He has begun with soft words and this probably signifies a lull in the cold war for the next several months.

Western diplomats here agree that Khrushchev's interest in resuming negotiations looking to a new summit meeting was behind the unusual message of congratulations which he dispatched to Kennedy Wednesday.

The Khrushchev message, made public in Moscow was notably free of some of the critical remarks he directed toward Kennedy before the election.

On one occasion he said that Kennedy and Vice President Richard M. Nixon were both "lackeys of monopoly capital." He also called them "a pair of boots," asking, "Which is better, the right or the left boot?"

In his congratulations to Kennedy Khrushchev called for a return to the kind of Soviet-U.S. relations which existed in the administration of President Franklin D. Roosevelt at a time when the two countries were allied against Nazi Germany. But he went beyond that reference to the past.

He declared that in the interest of world peace the Soviet Union is ready "to continue the efforts to solve such a pressing problem as disarmament, to settle the German issue through the earliest conclusion of a peace treaty, and to reach agreement on other questions."

"Any steps in this direction," he said in a sentence that could embrace both summit and diplomatic negotiations, "will always meet with the full understanding and support of the Soviet government."

Kennedy during the campaign declared himself willing to go to the summit but only on condition that "there is some reason to believe that a meeting of minds can be obtained on either Berlin, outer space, or general disarmament—including nuclear testing."

For the period immediately after the next president takes office Jan. 20, Kennedy said the president should focus on building up United States strength because "the Soviet Union does understand strength."

Neither in Kennedy's statement before the election nor in Khrushchev's new message is there any hint of changes in basic United States or Soviet policy.

Khrushchev has said repeatedly that he wants a peace treaty signed separately by East and West Germany, whereas the United States stands firm in a peace treaty signed by a united Germany. Khrushchev wants the Western allies to pull out of West Berlin. Kennedy, like Eisenhower, has pledged firm U.S. support for the continued independence of West Berlin from Communist rule.

What the friendly wording of the Khrushchev message does seem to mean is that the Soviet leader is prepared to resume active broadscale negotiation with a new U.S. administration on a variety of problems.

At the moment only one negotiation of this kind is under way. That is the U.S.-British-Soviet discussion at Geneva of a treaty to ban the testing of nuclear weapons under an international inspection system.

This conference has been dragging for many weeks, and allied diplomats assumed that the Russians wanted to wait to see how the U.S. election turned out. What turn the conference takes now could provide a significant indication of future Soviet intentions.

Some top diplomats here said that Khrushchev's friendly tone to Kennedy may be related to the top level meeting of Communist leaders in Moscow this week. It could be, they said, an effort by Khrushchev to demonstrate that he still has a chance to make peaceful coexistence work.

Pi Kappa Alpha Schedules 'Chicago Hood' Party

By JANET HICKS

Oo I love Fridays! The only problem is that they don't come often enough and we could easily do with more Fridays in each week.

Of course the best substitute for Friday is Saturday, and tomorrow is no exception. SuKy requests that everyone dresses casually for the game. So girls, don't kick your "tennies" too far under the bed after Friday's classes.

Well, mid-terms are over. Never thought the day would come. Isn't it fun to study for three tests and write a term paper every night for two weeks? It's almost like living.

The Chicago hoods are back. But just for one night this time. The Pi Kappa Alphas are having a Chicago hood party at the house tomorrow night. Music will be by the Empires. No squares are allowed.

Also dressing for the occasion will be the Kappa Sigmas for their toga party tomorrow night. Little Orbit and the Pacesetters will provide the lyrical sounds. Sorry, gods and goddesses only.

This seems to be a good weekend for open houses. The Sigma Alpha Epsilons are moving out to let the girls move into the house this afternoon.

A dinner at the Coach House and a dance at Landsdowne is on the schedule for tonight. They will brunch before the game and swing at a jam session tomorrow night.

The Kappa Alpha Thetas are also opening their house Sunday for parents from 2-4 p.m. Even daddy gets a chance to see what goes into room and board payments, sent from home faithfully at the beginning of each semester.

After the game, everyone is invited to meet the Xavier team at the Newman Club Center.

The Pacesetters and Little Orbit will be at the Alpha Gamma Delta house from 2 to 5:30 p.m. today for a jam session. Ya'll come.

How 'bout that—Kennedy finally won?

Bowman Hall girls are having a mixer tonight in their lounge. The dress is informal and Joe Mills will be playing from 8-12 p.m.

Splishing and splashing at the Campbell House pool Saturday night will be the Alpha Gamma Rhos and their dates.

After the game the Phi Sigma Kappas are having an open juke-box party at the house. I guess open means everyone is invited.

Oh yes, one more announcement. Un Kappa Few will have its regular meeting at the club house after classes today. All members are urged to attend.

Mid-Term Grades

Dr. Charles F. Elton, dean of Admissions and Registrar, said that mid-term grades have to be in by Nov. 14.

Students should be able to pick up their grades from their advisors by the end of next week.

Xavier Tests Favored Cats

Tomorrow afternoon the Wildcats close their home grid campaign with the annual Tennessee prep battle against Xavier. Xavier upset favored Louisville last Saturday and UK Coach Blanton Collier feels the Cincinnati squad will be "up and ready" for the Cats.

In the 16-game history of the series, Xavier has beaten Kentucky only once. That victory came in 1938 when the Musketeers slammed the Blue 26-7 in Cincinnati.

Again this week the Colliermen are expected to be in top physical condition with halfbacks Calvin Bird and Charlie Sturgeon ready to carry the Wildcat offensive load.

The Cats may have to count on their pass defense tactics to slow the Muskies, because of ace passer Ron Costello, who entered this season holding 16 school passing records.

With Costello throwing and sophomore George Potts running, Xavier can muster quite an offensive machine.

A year ago, Bird led the Blue to a 41-0 win over Xavier, despite the leadership and throwing of Costello. In that game Collier found a chance to give valuable experience to substitutes and needed rest to his regulars.

For the ninth week in a row, UK offensive hopes will ride with sophomore field general Jerry Woolum and sophomore ends Dave Gash, Tom Hutchinson and Tommy Simpson.

Woolum has now completed 62 of 119 passes for 753 yards and three touchdowns. Hutchinson has been the most consistent target, taking 24 passes for 329 yards.

Gash has caught 14 passes and Bird 14, each scoring a touchdown on aials.

A win Saturday will assure the Cats of an even break on the season and could provide a psychological advantage when the team invades Knoxville next week.

The Kittens finished their season Monday and began learning the Tennessee offense to work against the varsity next week.

The starting lineup against Xavier is expected to be the same as in the last few games with Dick Mueller and Dave Gash at ends, Junior Hawthorne and Bob Butler at tackles, Lloyd Hodge and Mel Chandler at guards and Irv Goode at center.

Woolum, Bird, Sturgeon, and Jimmy Poynter will open in the backfield.

Wildcat Runners Face Morehead

Prep Meet Precedes Cat-Eagle Encounter

The varsity cross country team closes its regular season tomorrow at 11:30 a.m. against the Morehead Eagles at the Picadome Course.

The meet will serve as a prep for the Southeastern Conference meet to be run in Atlanta Nov. 21.

Kentucky is the defending SEC champion, but is expected to have trouble defending this crown because of the loss of its top three runners from last year's team.

The high school cross country meet will precede the Kentucky-Morehead clash at 10:30 a.m.

Louisville St. Xavier will attempt to defend its championship, but another Louisville school, Trinity, rules as the favorite.

Undefeated Trinity is favored because of its double threat runners, Charlie Owens and Jimmy Belmaer.

The state meet is sponsored by the University Spiked Shoe Society.

Other teams expected to enter the race are Butler, Elizabethtown, Madison Central, Camargo, Berea Foundation, Trimble County, Simon Kenton, Paducah Tilghman, and John's Creek.

Fighting for individual honors

Xavier Eleven 'Brainy'

The Xavier tentative starting lineup tomorrow includes six players who achieved a B average during the spring semester.

Leading the parade was Owensboro's Tom Clark with a 3.7 average, Tackle Mike Humphrey with a 3.3, and Halfback Larry Clark at 3.2.

Others on the starting team with a 3.0 standing or better are end John Kappas, center Dick Kohls, and guard Mike Hannon.

Brookfield Farm picked up $119,571 when intentionally won the 1958 Pimlico Futurity.

are Owens and Belmaer of Trinity; Russell Banks, Elizabethtown; Joe Groh, the defending champion from St. Xavier; and Jim Gallagher of Lexington.

Gallagher attends high school at Lexington Catholic, but the school does not have a harrier team, and he will run unattached.

Gallagher has been working out with the Kentucky freshmen and has been very impressive. Frosh Coach Press Whelan says that Gallagher should definitely be in the running for individual honors.

Croh won the individual championship last year, but has not been too impressive this year. He, however, cannot be counted out because he is usually slow rounding into top form.

Banks is undefeated this year, his top individual effort coming against the Kentucky freshmen.
